It is up to the farmers that live from Cross Roads school house to Buell to have their road graded. Why not have it graded? Now is the time to raise the money while the county will give you fifty cents on every dollar donated. If you do have to give a few dollars to push this work along I am sure it will pay you.

CLOSING OF CHAUTAUQUA.

The last few days of the Chautauqua, which closed Friday, were fully up to the standard set by the first days. In fact, what was universally pronounced to be the best thing of the whole Chautauqua was the lecture by Judge Alden of Boston, who substituted for Senator Cummins on Friday afternoon. Judge Alden's subject was "The Needs of the Hour," and his effort was certainly a masterpiece. He said he didn't "know anything about you people in Montgomery—had never been here before," but that he did know something about the people up in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, and then he would proceed to lambast us in the most entertaining style imaginable, and it was with a profound sigh of regret that the audience listened to his peroration after an hour and a half of the keenest enjoyment. There will be a universal demand for Judge Alden's return to Montgomery next year. He has a lecture entitled "Powder and Matches," said to be equally as good as the one he delivered this week.

Floyd, the magician, entertained the audience Friday night with some wonderful sleight-of-hand tricks which were much enjoyed.

The music throughout the Chautauqua was uniformly good, but perhaps the two numbers that were most thoroughly enjoyed were the Music Makers' Quartette and the Kirksmiths Orchestra.

Congressman Rainey of Illinois delivered a good address Thursday night on "Do the People Rule?" and L. F. Lybarger made an address Thursday afternoon on "The Power of the Trusts," which was thought by some to be the best of the week. But all of the lectures were different and hardly susceptible of comparison.

Next to Alden's lecture, however, the most entertaining feature of the week was Strickland W. Gillilan's essay on "Tickles and Trickers." Poets and humorists are born, not made, and Mr. Gillilan is a born humorist. He has for a long time been a prolific newspaper writer, and has filled more than a thousand dates on the humorous lecture platform. Robert J. Burdette and James Whitcomb Riley have been two of his most enthusiastic friends in the work. By their faith, implied and expressed, they gave him much courage to go on being himself for the delectation of his audiences. His sixteen years' active newspaper drudgery have given him an insight into every phase of life, yet he has not lost his helpful illusions. He has kept himself sane by being a devoted family man. He says his home in Baltimore, containing his wife and three children, is his shrine, his anchorage and his regulating influence.

Wm. J. Bryan, who was unable to get here for his lecture Tuesday night, arrived Sunday at noon and spoke at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The largest crowd of the Chautauqua week heard him deliver his famous lecture, "The Prince of Peace." Those who came to hear any impassioned "crown of thorns and cross of gold" kind of eloquence were doomed to disappointment. Bryan's lecture was a simple but powerful argument for Christianity, and was presented in simple language, without attempt at oratory. But it was a powerful sermon, especially to young men, and was worth coming miles to hear.

Keith Vawter, the big man behind the whole Chautauqua movement in the Middle West, was in Montgomery Sunday and made a short talk just before Bryan spoke, in which he assured the Chautauqua patrons that enough season tickets had already been subscribed for next year to guarantee its appearance in this city again. Which was good news for the entire community.

ANOTHER WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

Electricity, telephones, airships and all the wonderful inventions of this scientific age seemed impossible a few years ago. But it seems there is nothing so impossible but what some scientist will discover the means of accomplishment. Prof. Emerson has now discovered a preparation which will really grow hair. Iowa people are amazed and astounded by Emerson's new discovery for the hair. Emerson said that one bottle of his new discovery would grow a full head of hair and restore gray or faded hair to its natural color. The people did not believe him. It was too much to expect and too good to be true. They had tried all the highly advertised hair restorers and had always been disappointed and they could not believe one bottle would really grow a full head of hair. But now comes the most startling part of all—for Emerson proved it—yes, absolutely proved it. What do you think he did? He made the bold and remarkable statement that he would give five dollars to any person who used one bottle of his new discovery and failed to secure a new and satisfactory growth of hair. The people were astounded by the unheard of offer, but they knew that he was financially responsible and would do as he agreed if it cost him his fortune. Thousands bought bottles of his new discovery, though most of them had little faith and expected to be paid five dollars for using the bottle of new discovery. But of the first thousand bottles sold only seven claimed they were not entirely satisfied, and they immediately received the five dollars without question. The rest of them were overjoyed to find that Emerson's New Discovery had really promoted a new and healthy growth of hair. What is this remarkable new discovery? Emerson won't tell, and chemists have tried to analyze it and have failed to find out what it is. Emerson asks us to publish this same offer to the readers of this paper. He states that with every bottle of his new discovery, the price of which is $1, he will send a written agreement to pay you five dollars if you are not entirely satisfied with the result which is invariably a new head of healthy, vigorous hair. The new discovery is not sticky, oily or greasy and is very pleasant to use. This is the most remarkable offer ever made by a responsible firm, such as The Emerson Chemical Co. which is backing Emerson in his offer. Just send $1 bill (money order not necessary) to the Emerson Chemical Co., Scottsbluff, Neb., and secure a bottle of the New Discovery and the agreement to pay you $5 or grow a full head of hair with only one bottle of this new discovery. July 8-4t.
